FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF OCEAN BEACH, POINT LOMA, MISSION BAY AND MISSION BEACH

Twenty-second Year No. 7 | Phone Bayview 3157 | Friday, December 3, 1943 | Five Cents a Copy | Ocean Beach, California

COMMENT and RUMOR

Ocean Beach chamber of commerce will elect their officers at their December meeting, Monday the 13th, and citizens and business people interested should make it a point to be on hand and cast their vote for some live workers. Names that have been suggested by the nominating committee will be published in next week's Ocean Beach News.

This week our columns are again filled to the brim with paid advertising, curtailing somewhat news items that could be enlarged upon with greater satisfaction to the groups which might be mentioned in them. Newspaper stock and extra labor are scarce but we have hopes of adding additional pages next week and giving our readers a double size issue with Christmas ads and Christmas greetings on Dec. 17. As soon as this issue of Dec. 3 is off the press we shall begin in earnest plans and solicitation for this special Christmas number and know merchants and business houses will cooperate to the fullest as they have done for similar numbers in previous years.

If you haven't donated your pint of blood
Be sure that your reason is good;
It's tough to think of a service man's life
That you might have saved—if you would!

The Salt Lake Tribune and Telegram, daily newspapers similar to our own San Diego Union and Sun-Tribune, suspended publication a week ago on account of a "Walk-off" by typographical workers in the newspaper's composing rooms. This newspaper had not missed a day of publication in the last 50 years until this strike.

Ocean Beach School Wins Honors in Old Paper Drive

Ocean Beach elementary school children topped all other city schools in the old paper drive.

More than 10,000 pounds of paper was collected during the recent paper drive. The drive was the response to the contest announced by a radio program. The paper has been turned over to the Junior Red Cross.

The fifth grade of the Ocean Beach elementary school went by the way of the new Harbor boulevard to Benson's saw mill. At the mill our class saw a chain with big spikes pull the logs out of the bay to be cut to smaller timber. After we watched the timber cut into lumber, we visited the engine room and saw the steam engines that ran the whole mill. After going through the furnace room, we walked through the box factory.

The following people helped with the transportation to take the class to the saw mill: Mrs. Belloff, Mrs. Straka, Mrs. Swallow, Mrs. McIntosh, principal, and Mrs. Storm.

On Monday, Dec. 6, at the "Church of God," corner Cape May and Ebers st., the monthly district meeting will be held by Mrs. J. P. Miller, our district leader.

Mrs. Robert Sterling will preside at the piano and the assembly will join in the singing of Christmas carols. There will be a prominent speaker and all are invited to attend. This means everyone on the beach. Block plan workers know they must attend and invite all their block members.

Some may feel it is not Christmas without our boys but if you were to ask them they would tell you to always keep the Christmas spirit, never let it die. You can rest assured that wherever our boys are and they can get a tree of any kind they will have it decorated and will think of us here at home as we will be thinking of them.

Thanks to our government every far-away post will have its Christmas turkey and fixings if possible.

We all hope and pray that before another Christmas we will have the boys home again.

Please write your boys in service as often as you can and ask their friends to write them. The boys do like to receive the news from home and to know they are not forgotten as this letter received by one of our block plan workers proves. In one of his letters he says:

"You said you and your husband are two elderly people that can do very little to help win this war. You'd be surprised just how much letters from people like you do help. You ask what the boys would like to have. I think the main thing the fellows are interested in is mail from home. We are supplied with everything else that we need, so just keep on writing. All the boys in action read your letters and wish to send their regards. We'll be waiting and hoping to hear from you again in the near future." At another time he wrote: "Mail call is always a very happy event out here when all the men hear from their folks back home but it becomes to mean more than just a happy event when someone you never knew sends a package and their best wishes. Your package received by my section and you should have seen their faces when they read your letter. Whoever you are, wherever you are, our best wishes go out to you." Isn't a letter like that worth a few minutes of your time?

About our discarded clothing and rag drive. Our government has chosen this Christmas season as they time to help the people in the liberated countries of Europe, many of whom suffered untold privations with their homes and loved ones taken. They want clothing of all types ranging from garments for infants, children, men and women. Discarded clothing that you cannot wear. Get together your clothing and rags and take to room 7 at the Ocean Beach elementary school where bins will be provided.

These not wanted articles can be sent to the Volunteers of America, Salvation Army or Goodwill. All clothing that is too badly worn to be used can be put in a bag as rags, and deposited in the bin for such. Used sheets, mattress covers, old towels, draperies, curtains, slip covers or old blankets can be put in the rag bags they are so badly needed. Mrs. Fraser has a complete list of clothing wanted, and all other data, should you desire to know more.

Remember — in planning our own Christmas here is a chance to give a gift to our unfortunate fellow citizens who felt the breath of war, but who will help our nation build a lasting peace.

Delinquency on Taxes Begins December 6th

This coming Sunday is Dec. 5th, the delinquency date on the first installment of taxes, after which 6% penalty is added. As the delinquency date, however, falls on Sunday the taxpayers will be given a day of grace and tax payments without penalty will be accepted Monday.

Those mailing their remittances, however, should slip them in the mail not later than Saturday in order to be sure that they do not receive a postmark later than Dec. 6th. This particularly applies to outlying and rural districts where the post-offices do not postmark after 6 or 7 o'clock in the evening.

Tax collections this year have excelled even last years which were particularly good.

IN THE SERVICE--

News from our local boys in service as well as letters or excerpts of letters will be gladly published in this newspaper. Please bring them in for many service men receive the Ocean Beach News by mail weekly and are glad to hear of former friends.

Observatory Work Stopped 'til War End

(Escondido Time-Advocate)

The world-famed observatory on Palomar mountain has been stripped of all workers except a caretaker, and work on the 200-inch mirror which was being ground in the optical shop at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena will not be resumed until after the war, Dr. John A. Anderson, executive officer of the observatory council, reported Saturday.

"The mirror has been partly parabolized, but another year will be required to complete the grinding and polishing process when work is resumed after the war," said Dr. Anderson.

"All the machinery has been installed in the observatory with the exception of the controls and this also will require another year to complete when the war is ended. We have no idea what time the mirror will be transported to Palomar from Pasadena, but it will be at least three or four years."

Dr. Anderson reported that the observatory grounds and equipment have not been damaged by the high winds that recently have swept over the mountain. He said there has been no brush or grass fires in the vicinity of the observatory.

Capt. Clyde S. McDowel, U. S. N., ret., who was in charge of the observatory during the construction period, has been supervising engineer of a ship building plant since 1941.

There now are three observatories on Palomar, the 200-inch, a 48-inch and the 18-inch.

Bridges Estate To Become Catholic Women's School

Plans of the Order of the Sacred Heart to acquire the pretentious Loma Portal home of the late Amelia C. Bridges for use as a school for women was disclosed last week by Leroy Goodbody, prominent San Diegan, representing the Order in the purchase.

Goodbody said it is expected the Bridges estate will be filing with the city planning commission a petition for rezoning of that portion of the Bridges property within the fence, so that it may become available for school use. At present the eight acres are zoned for one-family residences.

First indication of the deal to reach the city officially came with the filing of a protest from Comdr. Jonathan E. Henry (MC), U.S.N., ret., of 3611 Plumosa dr. He opposed the rezoning, on the understanding that it would include property other than within the enclosure surrounding the highly developed estate.

Internment Camp Experiences Will Be Told Tonight

Tonight, Friday evening, Rev. H. A. Park, missionary to China will relate personally at the Elim Assembly of God church, Cape May and Ebers st., at 7:30 p.m., the experiences of himself and family while being held by the Japanese for six months in an interment camp.

Rev. Park and family were of the number fortunate to be exchanged for Japanese prisoners of war and came home to the U.S.A. aboard the exchange ship, M.S. Gripsholm in Aug. of '42.

The Parks first left for China in 1930, opening a mission station at Chung Shaan, Kwang Si. Came to America in 1936 on furlough, returning to China in 1937 for second term. They were laboring in Hongkong at the time of the outbreak of war in Dec., 1941. It was after the capture of Hongkong the Parks were interned.

Rev. Parks will again return to China to continue missionary work this coming month, leaving in this country Mrs. Parks with their two daughters, Dorothy and Betty.

The public is cordially invited to hear this interesting account.

Bonnie Jeanne Photo Studio Opens for Business

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Peltcher the first of the week opened their modern photo studio at 4949 Newport ave. and have been more than rushed by families who wish remembrances of their little ones in the splendid artistic style that the Bonnie Jeanne, photographer of children, has built a reputation for. Years of experience in the line have given the Peltchers a splendid foundation on which to build and we feel their business is a worthwhile addition to the Ocean Beach shopping center.

Please Turn in Old Type Gas Masks

Air raid wardens, fire guards and messengers issued gas masks prior to July this year, are requested to turn in these regular army gas masks as they are needed by the armed forces.

Extreme Rules Govern Employment of Minors

More than 2000 high school students are working part time in local concerns to aid in the acute labor shortage, according to Samuel B. Ziegler, manager, department of work permits for city schools. As many as 50% of the personnel in some firms are minors, especially in industries which are not considered essential.

In employing minors, the employers should adhere to the following provisions:

1 That minors be employed only after they have obtained their work permits, and are not to be employed upon presentation of an application.
2 Minors may be employed between 5 a.m. and 10 p.m. only for eight hours, including hours in school.
3 Minors under 14 cannot be employed on days school is in session.
4 Minors under 16 cannot be employed around any moving machinery.
5 Minors must be 16 to be employed on a fishing boat.
6 A minor must have a work permit for each employer. After a minor terminates his employment with a firm, that permit is not legal for any other employer.
7 If a minor leaves a firm, a notice must be sent to the department of work permits giving termination date.
8 Failure of an employer to obtain a permit to employ or comply with the child labor laws makes the employer liable to prosecution by the labor commission.

Additional information regarding permits to employ may be obtained from the department of work permits, 12th and Russ sts., San Diego.

Former British Officer Says Stern Peace Needed

President-elect Glen Jones presided at Kiwanis club Tuesday evening owing to absence of President Clarence Swenson, who was at home with a cold. Dr. Frank R. Felt was program chairman with Capt. H. V. Lee of La Jolla as guest speaker.

Capt. Lee in World War I was a captain of the Royal Field artillery. He was living in Canada in 1914 and there joined the Canadian army. He was active in the British armed forces until 1919 when he was discharged and came to this country. He has since then become an American citizen and lives at La Jolla.

The speaker said the American and British people are of the same mind and character and the American revolution was not a revolution against the British people, but then as now, a fight against Germany tyranny, for the ruling monarch of that day was King George III, a German who could hardly speak the English language. The British people were so against fighting their fellow countrymen in America that this king found it necessary to form an army of Hessians to carry on the fight against American independence.

In the signatures of the 55 names on the Declaration of Independence the speaker said 54 were English names, meaning they were either English born or of English descent.

The English and American are not warriors or conquerors, according to Mr. Lee, but tradesmen who found it necessary in expansion to secure land and ports in faraway places. One phase of this expansion is shown at present in the controversy as to whether the United States should secure permanently landing fields and rights in all parts of the world.

Captain Lee urged public opinion be formed upon our politicians to the extent that stern measures will be meted out to those responsible for this war and that Germany shall not be allowed to win the peace as they did in World War I. Lee went into the armed forces 29 years ago, his son went in nine months ago, and if the European military machine is not smashed and controlled, said the speaker, it willl be less than another generation before we are forced to fight again.

America and the British Commonwealth peoples must stick together, the captain said, or the Hun would again force a more destructive war than ever, with the Japs to help gain control of the world.

B. S. Mills was elected secretary of the local club for 1944 at a called directors meeting.

John E. Shoemaker was a guest member of the Coast Guard. was of Capt. Mills and Lamont Insko, a guest of his father, Dr. Myron Insko.

DIVISION MEET DEC. 8 IN SAN DIEGO CLUBHOUSE

Next Wednesday evening, Dec. 8, the 11th Division of California-Nevada district Kiwanis International will hold installation rites for their lieutenant governor in the San Diego Women's clubhouse at 3rd and Maple sts. 'Why Doesn't Ocean Beach Build Its Own Sea Wall'--Austin

Councilman Walter Austin, for a short time a resident of Ocean Beach a few years ago when he had decided political aspirations, in conversation at Civic Center is credited with the query: "Why doesn't Ocean Beach build its own sea wall, like Mission Beach did."

Well Councilman Walter Austin we'll tell you why: Our residents and property holders don't want to be shouldered with this burden, when residents of all the city and yes, of all the county and a hundred miles beyond, have the advantage of every improvement that is made to the beach area here. The erosion is a natural cause from which damage should not be assessed against the beach property owners. The city of San Diego regulates activities and improvements (if any) along the water front and the whole city, as well as the county and state should be called upon to stop the damage of high tides, wind and storm.

Steps to determine the mean high tide line along the Ocean Beach shore, from the foot of Narragansett st. to Mission Bay bridge, were taken by the city council as a preliminary move to protect against further erosion on that part of the city's beaches.

Before the city can sign a contract with the state park commission for construction of a stone jetty at the south side of the entrance to Mission bay, the city must be in a position to assure the state that all sands filled in as a result of the construction of the jetty will be on public lands.

He said he believed a survey and a court decision fixing the tideline would be necessary, and that it may further be necessary for the city to quiet title to disputed lands that now are submerged, but that were, before erosion began, well above water.

As a temporary relief, the council voted $5000 to the public works department, to be used as that department may deem necessary in protective works along the Ocean Beach shore, in preventing high tides from carrying more land out to sea.

Heavy Tides Due in December

Four tides exceeding 7 feet, 10 tides exceeding 6 feet and 14 minus tides will occur in December.

The highest tide of the month, 7.3 feet, is scheduled for 9:41 a. m. Dec. 27. The lowest tides, both minus 1.6 feet, will occur at 4:57 p.m. Dec. 27 and at 5:42 p.m. the following day.

On Dec. 22, the shortest day in the year, there will be but 9 hours and 59 minutes of daylight, the sun rising at 7.48 and setting at 5:47.

LABOR AND MANAGEMENT IMPROVED RELATIONSHIPS

"BECAUSE I EAT sirloin steak each day you men think you should have the same thing. You must be satisfied with stews."

It was years ago, before the turn of the century, I heard that statement made by a manager-employer to a labor committee seeking an increase in wages. It represented the master and man attitude of capital and management toward labor of that time.

The men who were asking a wage increase were working 60 hours a week, and for those 60 hours were receiving $15 in each Saturday's pay envelope. Men doing the same work, in the same plant, today, work but 40 hours each week, for which they receive $62.50, on a wage scale established in 1938.

The difference was that evolution was solving the problems of labor and capital. A new generation of management was recognizing labor as a partner of capital and management in industrial production. The problem was working out by evolutionary processes, in response to public sentiment, until into it was injected unneeded and unwise legislation enacted at the demand of a number of self-appointed leaders of labor seeking personal advantages. That legislation changed evolution to revolution. It aroused new antagonisms and made the labor problem a partisan subject.

The evolutionary program was working because it was backed by American public sentiment. The people, generally, saw in labor something more than a commodity. They saw labor as a partner in industry, entitled to the rights and privileges of a partner. The public, generally, is opposed to the revolutionary methods established by law at the behest of those self-appointed leaders of labor who personally profit from an enforced union membership, labor regulation and an arbitrary collection of dues. Labor needs unified and sympathetic public sentiment for the promotion of its just claims as a partner in industry. It cannot create and permanently hold such sentiment on a revolutionary, partisan program.

HOME TOWN STORES ARE A DEFINITE ASSET

WITH A LIMITED AMOUNT of gas at our disposal it is not so easy to step into the car and go to the city to do our buying. Those of us who live in rural America are learning to better know and appreciate our home-town stores. We have found how essential they are to our comfort and convenience. Now that conditions have forced us to depend upon them, we are surprised to find how amply they supply our needs.

To be sure, they may not always have all the things we want and formerly bought, but that same condition is also true of those city stores we have patronized. On the shelves of our home-town stores we find practically everything we would now find on the shelves of the city stores, and we find them right at home where precious gas is not needed as a factor in the buying.

Our predicament has been a good thing for us. It has forced us to better know our home-town stores, to find out what they offer; and to many the investigation has been a bit surprising. We find the home-town merchants have been providing for our needs, there has never been a necessity of going elsewhere to replenish either the larder or the wardrobe.

Now that we have learned, through force of circumstances, what the home-town stores mean to us, what a serious disadvantage it would be not to have them, it would be well to remember these things when the war is over and the gas supply is again unlimited. Without those stores we would soon cease to have a town.

ENCOURAGING FOOD PRODUCTION

IF WAR PRODUCTION is to be encouraged, food, as of first importance, should have its fair share of such encouragement. According to the National Conference board there was an increase of 49 billion dollars in the national income of 1942 as compared with 1939. Of that increase agriculture received 5 billion 800 million, one-seventh of the total. Industry, represented largely by wages, received over 40 billion. It would seem the farmers are loaded with the greater portion of the inflation prevention burden. The wage earners received a far greater percentage of increase than the farmers.

U. S. Marines Win First Round on Bougainville

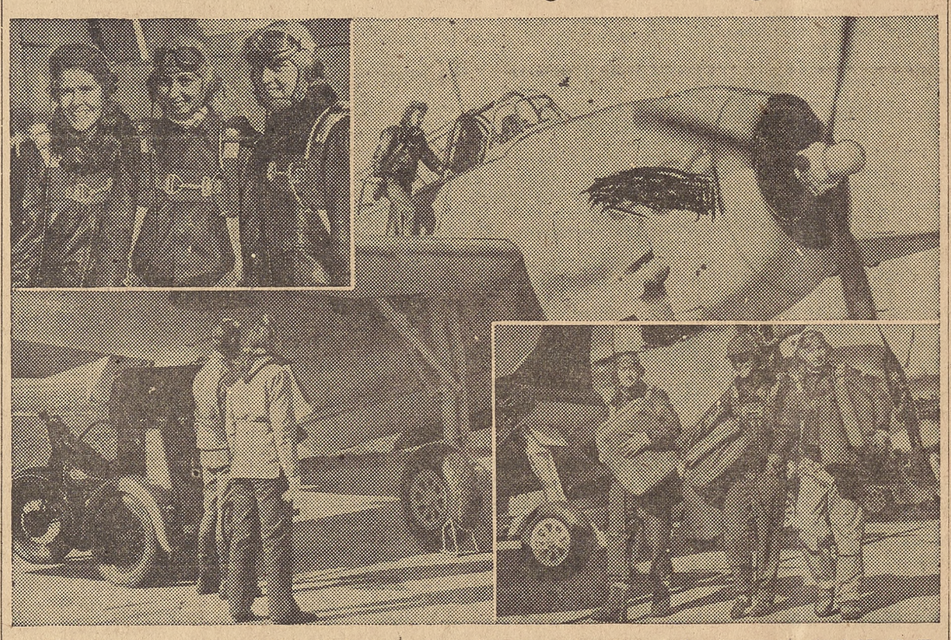
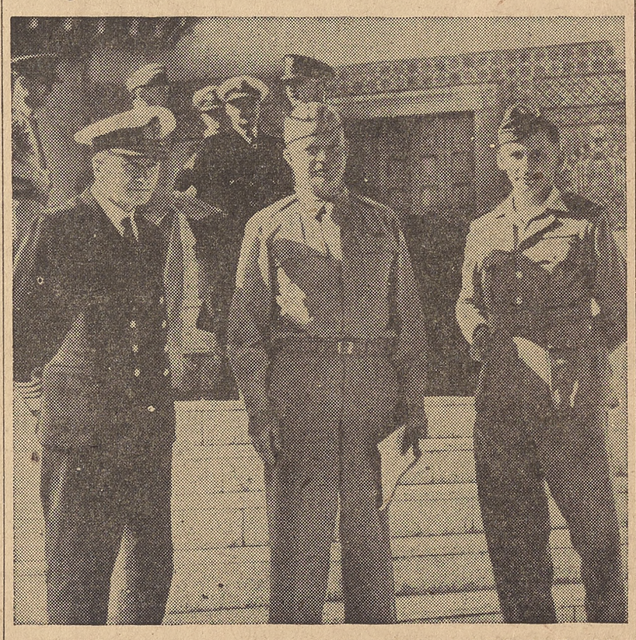
Women Put Hellcats, Avengers Through Paces



Test piloting was once considered a typically masculine profession. But at the Grumman air field, N. Y., three lady pilots are putting new high-powered Hellcats and Avengers through rigorous paces. Top left: Close-ups of three women doing a man's job. Cecile ("Teddy") Kenyon (left), Barbara K. Jayne (center) and Elizabeth Hooker. Center: One of the trio prepares to deliver a new plane to the navy. Bottom right: The three ladybirds walking past a row of new Hellcats.

High Allied Leaders Plan New Moves



Present at a recent conference of Allied chiefs of staff in North Africa were these high-ranking men, representing the land, sea and air commands. Left to right: Admiral Sir John Cunningham, commander in chief of the Allied fleet in the Mediterranean; Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander in chief of Allied forces in that area; and Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder.

Household Hints

To keep the oven, gas or electric, clean, wash it frequently with hot soda water—a tablespoon of soda to a quart of water. After using the oven, leave the door open until it has dried out. This helps avoid rust and stale odors. Always clean up foods that run over as quickly as possible.

Creamed chicken between slices of french toast—a new version of chicken sandwich and a good way to use up left-over chicken. With cranberry sauce, in season, and tart jelly or preserves at other seasons.

When washing, if a handful of salt is added to the last rinse water, it keeps the clothes from freezing fast to the line.

A milk-bottle cap placed in the paraffin top of each preserve jar just before it hardens will make the removing and replacing of the wax covers very easy when the tab on the cap is used as a handle.

When the word went out that soldiers overseas wanted packages from home—the response was so overwhelming that Uncle Sam reluctantly had to call a halt. Today, due to shipping space, there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men—but you can still send packages to soldiers in the U. S., and to Sailors, Marines, and Coast Guardsmen wherever they are. When you do, remember—one of their favorite gifts is cigarettes, and the favorite brand is Camel. Sales records in Post Exchanges and Canteens show that Camel is first choice with men in all the services. So send him that carton of Camels today.—Adv.

A Message about Coffee

To the Coffee Trade and Coffee Consumers of America

Dear Friends:

THE NATIONAL COFFEE DEPARTMENT OF BRAZIL is pleased to announce that the new crop of Brazilian coffee has just been harvested. In the opinion of experts, this year's crop is one of the finest, if not the finest, in QUALITY, ever produced in Brazil.

A further reassuring statement from the National Coffee Department of Brazil is to the effect that necessary steps have already been taken to make this new, and finer, crop of coffee immediately available to American Importers in the ports of Santos, Rio de Janeiro, Angra dos Reis, Paranagua and Victoria.

In addition, the utmost is being done to permit buyers to make up their shipments, without delays, of all grades from the new crop.

As a result, Brazil is now in a position not only to supply the increasing demand for fine coffees on the part of the American Consumer, but further, to enable its customers either to increase the percentage of Brazils in their blends, or to maintain a high standard of quality in their hundreds of "Straight Brazil" or "Straight Santos" brands.

Cordially yours,
EURICO PENTEADO

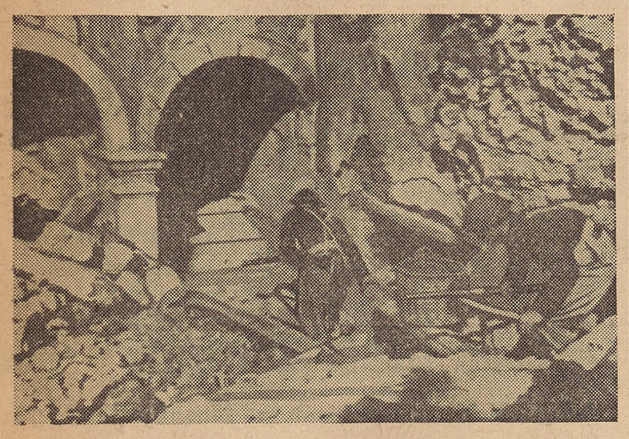
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Army Reduces 1944 Manpower Needs; Red Forces Sever Nazi Rail Lines; Action Spreads in Southwest Pacific; Anti-Subsidy Battle Gains in Scope

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.



Italy—British troops here are shown picking their way through typical ruins of village in savage fighting on the Italian front. Adding to difficulties were driving rains, which converted many of the small rivers and creeks running through the mountainous country into swirling torrents.

With the Nazis entrenched in elaborate concrete fortifications hewed into the rocky terrain, U. S. and British troops moved slowly and cautiously along the craggy slopes.

In the Aegean sea, the Germans pounded the Allied held Dodecanese island of Samos, following their capture of Leros. Previously, they had retaken Kos. Important stepping stones to Greece, these little islands also serve as bases for threatening neutral Turkey to the east.

ARMY CUTS SIZE:
Draft Change Voted

As the house sent the senate a bill calling for the deferment of fathers until all other eligible single and childless married men throughout the nation have been called, it was revealed that the army had decided to cut its manpower needs by 548,000.

In addition to the provision putting fathers at the bottom of the draft lists and postponing their induction from 30 to 60 days, the house bill also requires occupational deferments be reviewed by appeal boards within the district where the deferred person works. A five man medical commission would be established to consider the possibility of lowering physical standards.

The 548,000 cut in manpower needs will give the army a total force of 7,652,000 men. It also was revealed that the army had saved over 13 billion dollars out of 127 billion dollars appropriated for its use, with economies of over 10 billion dollars effected by curtailment of the armament, equipment and airplane programs.

RUSSIA:
Cut Nazi Railroads

Two important railroads in Russia linking German armies of the north with those of the south, and running westward into the big pre-war Polish cities of Warsaw and Lwow, were cut by the Red armies.

As the Russian forces severed these major German arteries, Nazi forces launched a strong counterattack against the Reds in the vicinity of these rail lines, gaining some ground. But here, as further to the south where the Germans claimed 500,000 Russians were hammering them above Krivoi Rog, the Nazi positions still were in a fluid state.

To the north, the Reds pecked at the Nazi base of Gomel, serving as the southern anchor of their Baltic line which is hinged on Finland. Ten classes of reservists in the Baltic states have been called to military service by the Nazis.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC:
Action Spreads

With U. S.. forces being strengthened on Bougainville for a major drive against the 40,000 Japs reportedly defending their last stronghold in the Solomons, Liberator bombers lashed against the enemy's tiny Gilbert and Marshall Island possessions, standing out like pesky little thorns along our supply routes to the battle areas.

Warding off Jap blows from the air, U. S. warships moved up Bougainville's west coast to pound the enemy's big airplane base of Buka. Absence of strong elements of the Japanese fleet in the advanced battle zone suggested that the enemy was concentrating his formidable naval force on protection of his 1,500 mile sea lane running from Japan proper to the rich islands south.

In New Guinea, Australian forces began moving northward from Finschhafen toward the Jap strongholds of Madang and Wewak, from which the enemy's aerial units have been striking at the Allied bases.

FOOD FRONT:
Subsidies Hit

Agricultural directors from five states joined in the bitter attack against continuation of the administration's subsidy program even as Economic Stabilization Director Fred Vinson was reportedly considering $9,000,000 a month subsidies to millers to prevent an increase in the price of bread.

Fred Vinson

Directors from South Dakota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Florida opposed the subsidy program before a senatorial committee, with South Dakota's E. H. Everson declaring government payments to hold down consumers' prices was the chief source of inflation by creating extra purchasing power out of the money saved buyers.

Strong anti-subsidy sentiment which was looked upon to shelve the government's program in both the house and senate, was further agitated by the proposed plan to pay millers about 14 cents a bushel for wheat to prevent bread price increases of from one to two cents a pound.

Aid Hog Marketing

To iron out problems associated with the marketing of the record pig crop, the government moved in two directions. First, Price Administrator Chester Bowles reduced the value of all pork cuts by two ration points; second, War Food Administrator Marvin Jones announced support prices of $13.75 per hundredweight would be paid in all markets for good to choice butcher hogs from 200 to 270 pounds.

Chester Bowles

Bowles' action was taken to stimulate consumption of pork and 100 per cent pork sausage. Lard and sausages made from other meat were not affected.

Besides guaranteeing support prices, WFA authorized farmers to slaughter their own hogs without federal license and sell to consumers for 90 days.

OIL:
Seek New Wells

With a projected goal of 24,000 new oil wells in 1944, prospects loomed for increased activity in the Rocky Mountain states.

Of the 24,000 new oil wells, 5,000 are to be exploratory and the remaining 19,000 development projects. The immense Powder river basin in the northeastern section of Wyoming and southeastern section of Montana might prove the focal point of operations.

Congressional action in reducing royalties on discoveries on public domain to a flat 12.5 per cent for the duration and 10 years afterward furnishes incentive for action in the Rocky mountain region.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

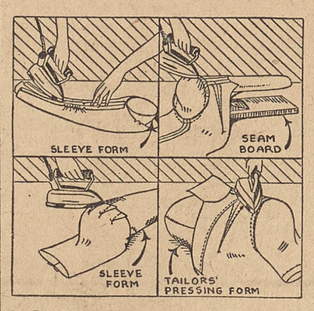
WAR PRODUCTION: The peak demand in war production has been passed, Harry Moulton, president of the Brookings Institute, recently told the American Finance conference in Washington. He said that stocks of raw materials have become entirely adequate, and even excessive in some cases. More and more cancellations of war goods contracts are coming, he predicted.

ELECTRIC IRONS: Two million electric flatirons will be manufactured and sold next year, if the WPB will release materials. Arthur Whiteside, vice chairman of WPB in charge of civilian needs, has requested that enough metal and other material be allowed to make 500,000 irons in the first quarter of 1944. About three million irons were sold annually, before the war.

BETTER DRESSMAKING

By Ruth Wyeth Spears



MANY women are learning to sew as a conservation measure. It is a way to make spare minutes count. They are finding incidentally that dressmaking is as much fun as any other craft. If one has, or can beg, borrow or buy, a sewing machine, all the other equipment is inexpensive and most of it has other uses as well.

One of the first things that the beginner learns is the importance of pressing. It begins as soon as the first seam is sewn. She may acquire pressing irons for special purposes later, but whatever type of iron serves for the family laundry also does very well for dressmaking. An open-end ironing board that will take the full length of a dress is essential but every home-maker counts that a household must. Her seam pressing board and her pressing cushions are the darlings of her equipment. They also may serve her well on ironing day. It is smooth work with the iron when she tucks them under a shoulder or inside a sleeve.

The sleeve form cushion and the tailors' pressing form are easy to make. The latter is often called a ham cushion because that is the shape of it. The covering should be of heavy muslin or other firmly woven cotton goods. The cover for the sleeve form may be cut by a tight sleeve pattern with all extra fullness taken out. The cushion should be stuffed very tightly. A center core of flat layers of newspaper is sometimes used for the large cushion. Cotton or small bits of clean rags may be used for the rest of the stuffing.

NOTE—This drawing is from Mrs. Spears' latest book, BETTER DRESSMAKING. The beginner may learn to sew from this profusely illustrated book; and the experienced dressmaker will find it a useful reference book on modern sewing techniques. Readers wishing to see a copy of BETTER DRESSMAKING should send name and address for complete description and special offer. Address: Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, N. Y.

Efficiency

"The secret of efficiency and success in our enterprises is to act at once upon our ideas while our fancy is still warm and in a glow."

'Do Your Best and End Will Take Care of Itself'

There's a bit of impressive sentiment in this homely thought of Abe Lincoln's:

"If I were to try to read, much less answer, all the attacks made on me, this shop might as well be closed for any other business. I do the very best I know how—the very best I can; and I mean to keep doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, 10 angels swearing I was right would make no difference."

Unique Family

A unique American family is that of the Irish Horse Traders whose 4,000 members, all related by blood or by marriage, spend most of their time traveling through the South in small groups trading horses and mules. Their one official address is an undertaking establishment in Atlanta to which they ship their dead and where they meet for a week every April to celebrate marriages and to hold their annual mass funeral.

Congo Eel Isn't

The Congo eel is not from the Congo and is not an eel but a salamander.

Smile Awhile

Why Not?

The state police were giving examinations for drivers' licenses. Upon returning from the driving test, a middle-aged Negro was questioned about different highway laws.

The questioner asked: "And what is the white line in the middle of the highway for?"

Sam replied promptly: "Fo' bicycles."

His Field

"And did you ever lose yourself in your work?"

"Yes."

"What is your work?"

"Exploring central Africa."

A fellow asked his boss for a raise. He told the boss that he must have one, as several other companies were after him. It wasn't until weeks later that the boss discovered that they were the gas company, the electric company, and a furnishing company.

The Japs were wrong

Let's keep them wrong!

The Japs were wrong.

Cutting off our rubber supply in the Pacific didn't take us out of the war—or even slow us up.

For Government, the Rubber Director, the rubber industry, and the petroleum, chemical, and alcohol industries pooled their patents and ideas, worked together, and accomplished the seemingly impossible.

Today, there is no shadow of a doubt that our planes will continue to fly, our ships to sail, our tanks to roll.

For America now has nearly enough rubber to meet our essential needs!

But our tire worries are still here!

The American people saw the new synthetic rubber plants spring up like mushrooms. They heard of large-scale production of synthetic rubber. And they applauded. Unfortunately, they also jumped to the conclusion that they could stop worrying about tires!

It is true that the RUBBER supply crisis is past. But the long-expected TIRE shortage is with us!

"But," you may say, "how can this be when thousands of tons of Government synthetic rubber are being made . . . when such a tremendous tonnage of rubber products is being turned out, as well as more airplane and truck tires than ever before."

One reason is that—as the Baruch Committee foresaw—few tires could be manufactured until our synthetic rubber supply was well on the way. This resulted in millions of tires going out of use at a time when there were no replacements. Meanwhile, tires left in service have less mileage in them, and prewar inventories are gone.

Another reason is that our military needs are far greater than anyone anticipated.

Also, the rubber companies are using a lot of their machinery and manpower to turn out life rafts, bullet-sealing fuel tanks, and hundreds of other urgently-needed army and navy products, in addition to tires.

And you should know that half of today's requirements are for large-size, heavy-duty bus, truck, artillery, airplane, and combat tires, requiring much more labor and materials than peacetime products.

Finally, the tire industry, like every industry today, is feeling the manpower shortage, and there just aren't enough hands for the job.

Face up on the table!

These problems will be overcome when our enemies are overcome. Meanwhile, we want to put our cards face up on the table.

We've told you frankly why there is a serious tire shortage. Now we want you, and every other American who owns a set of tires, to know that this country's transportation system can still suffer a serious blow . . . unless you make it your personal duty to take care of the tires you now own.

How to make tires last longer

Do no unnecessary driving.

Live up to the Government regulation—don't exceed 35 miles an hour.

Keep your tires inflated up to recommended pressure, and check them every week.

Avoid hitting holes in the road, or bruising your tires on curbs or stones. Don't start or stop suddenly. Slow down for sharp corners.

See that your wheels and axles are in line.

Switch your tires from wheel to wheel every five thousand miles, and have them inspected regularly for removal of foreign objects and repair of cuts.

And . . . most important of all . . . recap your tires as soon as they become smooth.

HOW GOOD ARE PASSENGER CAR TIRES OF SYNTHETIC RUBBER?

It may be a long time before all civilians can get synthetic rubber tires. Meanwhile, if you should be one of the few who do get them, you will want this information:

Synthetic rubber tires for passenger cars are good tires, and will give you satisfactory service if you take care of them.

You should not think of synthetic rubber tires as improved tires . . . but as emergency tires. And remember that they have not yet had time to prove what they can do.

It is beside the point to theorize on how they would react to the phenomenally high speeds of prewar days. Every patriotic American knows that tire treads . . . all tire treads . . . wear out faster at high speeds, and so drives at today's recommended speed of 35 miles an hour.

As time goes on, we will learn more about the effects of under-inflation of rough roads, and of other abuses. They damage all tires. Indications are that they do proportionately more harm to synthetic rubber tires.

Meanwhile, all tires are rationed to you in trust for the nation, and it is your duty to take every possible care of them, to avoid misuse and prevent abuse.

As experience teaches us more and more about synthetic rubber tires, we will pass the information along to you. Meantime, play safe Be careful!

If you use synthetic rubber tubes, be sure they are properly installed. They should be put into the tire, then inflated, deflated, and inflated again. And they should never be mounted on rusty rims.

TRUCK AND BUS TIRES ARE A DIFFERENT STORY

Truck and bus tires, being larger and heavier, generate more heat. They are given long, hard usage on all kinds of highways. They are all too frequently overloaded.

Frankly, today's synthetic rubber bus and truck tires will not stand the abuse that prewar tires would stand, especially overloading. Progress is being made daily—but overloading which would have damaged a prewar tire can ruin today's synthetic tire.

The Tire Industry is doing its utmost to solve the serious problem of providing the nation's trucks and buses with satisfactory tires in sufficient quantities.

But until this problem is solved, a dangerous threat exists to America's most vital transportation.

Therefore, while treads of present truck and bus tires are immensely important . . . the carcasses of these tires have a value beyond all price to America, and to America's truck and bus operators!

Unless tires now in use are made to last, these two essential services will almost certainly break down!

These tires . . . every one of them . . . must be recapped the instant the tread wears smooth . . . before any damage is done to the carcass.

They must be recapped not once, but again and again! High speeds must be done away with . . . especially on hot roads. Overloads must be avoided. Tires must be properly inflated at all times.

The responsibility to take care of these tires . . . to make them last as long as possible . . . is a vital necessity! It must be shouldered by all operators, by all drivers, by all garage men!

No American can fail to heed this warning! The situation is so serious that it is recognized in a new tire warranty. But the real job is to conserve all tires now in use!

A new warranty—

With conditions as they are, and synthetic rubber in its present stage of development, a new tire warranty has become necessary and has been adopted. It applies to all tires. Under its terms, injuries such as bruises, body breaks, cuts, snags, and heat failures as well as tread wear are not subject to adjustment consideration.

Nor are injuries or failures which result from improper tire care or misuse or abuse. This includes failure as a result of overload, excess speed improper inflation, or other non-defective conditions. Or when tires are used on rims not conforming to Tire and Rim Association Standards.

Don't forget that everyone . . . the Tire Industry, the Rubber Director, and many others, are working together with all their energy, as they have worked from the beginning, to keep America rolling.

And remember that, while the Japs were wrong ...you must help keep them wrong! Take care of the tires you now have!

Alaska by Direct Road

Immediate construction of a new 517-mile road connecting the Pacific Coast directly with Alaska is being urged.

For a long time we've been figuring, that if we lived long enough, we were going to hook a trailer on behind the Oldsmobile and hie ourselves up to see the Alaskan territory, but if we can save a thousand miles or more on the round trip we'd be glad to do it. At present the west coaster can only reach the Alaskan highway by driving inland even beyond the Rocky Mountain range. A more scenic drive would be to follow the "trench route" lying between the Rockies and the Coast range. Gorgeous forests, plentiful streams and virgin foliage would make this the ideal route so we are behind the new cutoff, favoring Canada's plan to put up $12 million and our own country's share $6 million. Such an investment would be money well spent.

The New Empire

Polls taken among newcomers to the Pacific coast indicate that 80 percent of them expect to remain permanently.

If this proves true, our state population might soar well past the 8 million mark when service men return to civilian life and further post-war migration to California takes place.

The question is: Can we support such a huge number in peace-time? There are reasons to think we can. California no longer depends chiefly on agriculture, mining and forestry—we have added an indusrial empire.

It is true that much of this industry is made up of "war babies"—ships and aircraft building which will be curtailed after the war, but a substantial part is producing chemicals, plastics and light metals and are expected to continue, or even expand after victory. Mass production of motor cars out here may become a reality. We now have a steel industry of our own. And beyond the Pacific lies the almost untapped trade potentialities of the Orient.

"You can't stop California in this new parade," recently declared A. P. Giannini, board chairman of the Bank of America. "It is the No. 1 agricultural state and it is attaining eminence in industry and will retain this after the war."

FUNERAL RITES FOR FRED WALLACE YESTERDAY

Funeral services were held yesterday, Dec. 2nd, for Fred W. Wallace, 40, San Diego attorney, who four or five years ago made his home in Ocean Beach and was interested in local civic affairs.

He was a native of El Reno, Okla., and became active in the practice of law in that state before coming here in 1932. He became a member of the John D. Spreckles lodge and Darius chapter of the Royal Arch Masons, the University club, the Executives' association and also served at one time as president of the San Diego County Bar association.

Mr. Wallace is survived by his widow, Mrs. Virginia Ballard Wallace; twin sons, Daniel and Ronald, 4; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wallace, of El Reno; two sisters, Mrs. Henry Murdock, of Oklahoma City, and Mrs. Jack Winder, of Bethany, Okla., and a brother, Ralph W. Wallace, also a San Diego attorney.

DANIEL CUTLER DIES AT AGE NINETY-TWO

Funeral services were held Monday for Daniel R. Cutler, 2536 Poinsettia dr., who passed away on Friday, Nov. 26, age 92 years. Deceased had been a member of Ocean Beach Baptist church for 17 years. Rites were read by Rev. P. O. Jenson.

The deceased was survived by his wife, Mrs. Ethel P. Cutler and a niece, Mrs. Adelaine Holmes.

Services were at Bonham Bros. Interment in Glen Abbey.

AMERICAN HEROES
BY LEFF

A B-25 was taking off somewhere in North Africa. It crashed and burst into flames. Private Eugene A. Ganter rushed forward with three other soldiers to aid the crew. The heat was overwhelming but Ganter and his companions, drenched from the hoses of rescue apparatus, rescued three crew members from the blazing ship. Then Ganter returned to remove loaded 50 caliber machine guns. He won the Soldier's Medal. Such are the men your War Bonds fight beside.

This wartime Holiday Season we advise you to "try the train"

"We're pulling the heaviest loads in history, using every locomotive our railroad owns or can borrow. We're short of trained men, too. To avoid disappointment, better plan on spending Christmas at home."
S. P. Engineer

In normal years the Christmas season is a jolly time on the railroad. Package-laden travelers bound for family reunions fill our trains.

We railroaders have fun carrying people on holiday journeys, and we hate to disappoint a single ticket seeker . . . but this war year we really have no room for pleasure travelers.

Service men on holiday furloughs, relatives traveling to meet them, military personnel in organized groups, business men in war work—these people now have first call on our facilities.

This means that, unless you must travel, you'll be wise NOT to try the train. We hope there'll come a Christmas soon when our message can be different!

CLEAR THE RAILS FOR HOLIDAY FURLOUGH TRAVEL
"S.P.'s promised to carry us wherever we need to go, and this is our thanks to people who give up holiday trips this year."

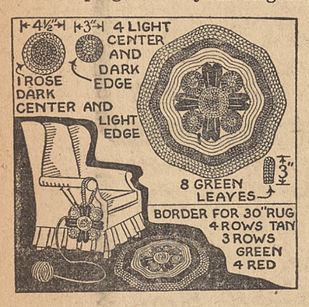
Flowered Rug and Bag Made of Rags

WHEN you have made one rag rug you will find yourself a member of an enthusiastic clan; counting the days until you fall heir to a dress of a particular color that fits into the design that is developing under your fingers.



These enthusiasts also bleach materials to tone them down; they brighten others with dye; they antique some with tea and they have a wonderful time.

The sketch gives all the directions you will need to copy this fascinating braided rag rug with a flower medallion in the center. Or you may make two of the medallions, sew them together and add a braided handle for a knitting bag. Braid the fabric strips tightly and keep the work flat while you sew the circles for the roses and the loops for leaves; then sew them together. Use carpet thread double for this and for sewing the braided rows around the edge of the rug.

Kidneys Must Work Well-

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

DOAN'S PILLS

See Here, Private Hargrove!

by Marion Hargrove

W.N.U. SERVICE

THE STORY SO FAR: Private Marion Hargrove, former editorial employee of a North Carolina newspaper, has been inducted into the army and is receiving his basic training at Fort Bragg. He has been classified as a cook. This classification together with a more than usual amount of KP duty have caused him to become pretty well acquainted with the Company kitchen. Private Hargrove has become rather well versed in the many angles of "goldbricking" and other army pastimes. He claims, however, that "shooting the breeze" or the "bull session" is the soldier's favorite recreation. At this stage of training some of the boys are experts in the art. As we pick up the story he is discussing this.

CHAPTER IX

By this time, the evening bull sessions have worn themselves into a very definite routine. If Corporal Ussery is there, he lectures on how he'd run the Army; if it's Private Terrence Clarkin, he tells how he used to direct the intricate traffic affairs of Radio City Music Hall when he was assistant chief doorman there. Unless Private Henri Gelders is stopped, he'll start a violent argument among the butchers over how to cut a steak.

McGlauflin will talk for hours about the beauties of the lakes in Minnesota. Grafenstein will deliver discourses on how he would run the Wisconsin football team; Pappas, about Alabama's Crimson Tide. Maciejewski will sermonize on the utter baseness and treachery of womanhood.

Lately, however, the sessions have come more and more under the sway of Private Merton Hulce, a mad Irish lad from Muskegon, Michigan. Private Hulce apparently didn't stop at kissing the Blarney Stone. He must have stolen half of it to carry with him.

Hulce's chief topic of conversation is his mother's fabulous family, the Smiths, all of whom seem to get enmeshed in every war that comes along. His grandfather, who was a captain in the Coast Guard at the outbreak of the last war, was transferred to duty at guarding munitions dumps and such for the duration of the war.

According to Hulce, one of the munitions guards with his grandfather's detail was approached late one night by an officer of the guard. "Halt!" shouted the sentry, and the officer halted. "Advance to be recognized!" said the sentry, and the officer advanced. The sentry forgot to order "halt" again and the officer came within a foot of him.

In the midst of this fiery hell he saw a peach tree with peaches growing on it.

Suddenly the officer reached out and snatched the rifle from the guard's hand.

This was an exceedingly uncomfortable position for the guard, especially in that time of war. He might even have been sentenced to death. The officer stood there just lookng at the guard for fully a minute. "What would you have done," he asked in a terrible voice, "if an enemy had got your gun like that?"

The guard trembled for a moment and recovered. "I would have snatched it back, sir," he said, "like THAT!" And the officer stood there, empty-handed.

Hulce's grandfather, who told that story, is now about sixty-five, his grandson says. He was asked to come back into the Navy three months ago as a captain. Being a Smith, he's back. With him in the armed forces today are two of his sons and two of his grandsons.

Merton had two uncles in the last war, both of whom fared exceedingly well when you take a practical view of it. Neither tired himself out. The first crossed the ocean nine times playing the clarinet in a troop ship's band. The Germans torpedoed the boat once and the holes in the side were stuffed with mattresses. Hulce's uncle rode back into port, still playing his clarinet. That was the goldbricking uncle.

The other uncle served as a kaypee on the trip across. Carrying a tray around the deck, he was heckled several times by a person he soon grew to loathe. Eventually the Irish wrath of the Smiths rose to boiling point. Uncle Smith lifted the tray high overhead and wrapped it around the heckler's neck. He spent the rest of the war in confinement.

Then there was the cousin, grandma's sister's boy. Serving in the front-line trenches, he grew suddenly hungry one morning. Looking out of the trench, he saw a peach tree growing there in the midst of the fiery hell, and there were still peaches on it. He tried to sneak into the tree, but the enemy's bullets found him. He was carried behind the lines. Just as the stretcher bearers laid him down, an enemy shell exploded in the center of their little group and none of them were ever seen again.

This happened at exactly ten o'clock on the morning of November 11, 1918—one hour before the Armistice was signed.

Next to the Bugler, I suppose the battery clerk has the goldbrickin'est job in the battery. You could cut his pay to ten dollars a month and he'd still be defrauding the government.

Just watch the battery clerk for a while and you start wondering why he's in the Army, when he's so evidently cut out to fit the leaning end of a WPA shovel. While the rest of the battery is earning its daily bread with sweat, the battery clerk sits in the orderly room hob-nobbing with the powers that be, typing the daily worklist with original spellings for all the names and wondering how long it is until lunchtime.

Our battery clerk is a beardless youth named Howard Miller. I tripped over him yesterday evening on my way back from a hard day's work and stopped to chew the conversational fat.

"Junior," I asked him, "how does your conscience feel about this six-day goldbricking schedule every week? Don't you feel a twinge on payday?"

Corporal Miller made a move to draw himself up indignantly, but decided it wasn't worth the effort. "If you're insinuating that I don't have to work you're off your bean, sonny. I do two or three times as much work as you happiness boys."

I yawned and sat down. "After listening to Ussery shooting off his mouth fifteen hours a day, I can take yours. Go on with your fantastic story."

"Boy," said Miller, "the responsibility is enough to kill an ordinary man. I'm a one-man information bureau for the whole battery. I have to know who everybody is, where everybody is, where everybody's going and how long he's going to be there.

"I have to know the answer to every dumb question you guys come popping up with. Where's my mail? When do I get my furlough? Where are we going to be sent when we get shipped out of here? Why didn't I get a weekend pass? Why was I on KP again today? Every sort of question you could imagine!"

"Quit popping your guns, laddie," I told him. "That's no grind for you. You use the same answer on all the questions: 'How the hell would I know?' "

He was quiet for a while and I thought he had gone to sleep again. I was all primed to hum "Chow Call" to wake him up, when he stirred and sighed heavily.

"All right," I prompted him, "so you're the one-man information bureau. So what do you do in the line of actual work?"

"Work!" he shouted. "That's what I do—work! Why, I have to write all the letters and keep all the files and keep duty rosters up to date! I have to make thousands of rosters of the battery every month—"

"That," I suggested, "should take at least two or three hours every day. What do you do to while away the other tedious hours of the day?"

He was quiet again for about a minute. Then he arose. "I've got a pretty hard day ahead of me tomorrow, Hargrove," he said. "I hope you won't mind if you excuse myself. You have to get plenty of sleep when you have a job like mine."

"When you have a job like yours," I growled, "you can sleep night and day."

The top sergeant stuck his head out of the supply room and beckoned with his arm. "Come 'ere, you!"

I dropped my stable broom in the battery street and hastened toward him, as one always does when summoned by the top kick.

"Well, Private Hargrove," he said, "this is a red-letter day for you."

"You mean you're going to let me go out and drill like the other fellows?"

"Noooo, Private Hargrove," he said. "I mean I'm going to let you turn in all your equipment. You are no longer to be a rookie, Private Hargrove. You are going to be an important working cog in the great wheel of national defense. You are leaving us.

"What's the deal?" I asked. "Where do I go and what do I do?"

The sergeant chuckled and leaned back in his chair. He sighed ecstatically twice. "Would you really like to know, son, or would you rather put it off as long as you can?"

"Well," I said thankfully, "you can't be sending me out as a cook, because I don't know anything about cooking."

The sergeant sat back and drummed happily on the table.

"Great gods!" I shouted. "I'm not going to be a cannoneer, am I?"

"No, Private Hargrove," he said after another long pause, "you're not going to be a cannoneer. We're going to give you a job where you can use your natural talents."

There was a distinctly sadistic tone in his voice. I waited.

"You're going to be a first cook, Hargrove," he said fondly. "Not just a plain cook. A head cook! A king in your own kitchen, a man of responsibility. Ain't that lovely?"

"You can't do this to me!" I roared, when my breath returned. "It's against every decent human law! I don't know anything about cooking! I want to be a cannoneer!"

Sergeant Goldsmith's eyes wandered guiltlessly to the ceiling. "You don't know anything about cooking, huh? That's bad, boy, that's bad! Why, you're supposed to be on shift right now."

"Sergeant," I said, "I couldn't fry an egg right now if it had directions on the package."

"You're in the cooks' battery, ain't you? You've been going to cooking school and you've been sent to a kitchen for all these weeks. You're supposed to be graduated any day now. What have you been

"Son," he said, "you're going to make a perfectly breathtaking Horrible Example." I had nothing more to say.

doing in the kitchen I put you in?"

"Making jerk-ade," I explained, "chopping celery, peeling onions. They say I get in their way. They say I keep spirits too high and production too low."

"I feel for you," the sergeant said. "I deeply sympathize. You're going to be a mighty unpopular little boy in your new home. If that supper tonight don't melt in them boys' mouths and send them clamoring for more, they'll either massacre you or run you over the hill. That's one thing the boys won't allow—bum cooking!"

"Sergeant Goldsmith, sir," I implored him. "Can't somebody else go in my stead? Somebody who can cook? Look at me—a digger of ditches, a mopper of floors, a scrubber of kitchens, a ministering angel to undernourished grass plots, but a cook never! You don't know what you're doing to me!"

"Son," he said, "you're going to make a perfectly breath-taking Horrible Example!"

Then he rose and walked back into the supply room. "Thomas," he said, "check in this yardbird's equipment."

Sergeant Israel looked up from his Form Thirty-Two records. "Don't he like his equipment?"

"Check in everything but his clothing," the top kick said. "Get a truck to take him to Headquarters Battery, FARC."

Sergeant Thomas W. Israel looked up in faint amazement. I looked in sheer bewilderment.

"They had to figure some way to stop his cooking career and save the morale of some battery as would get him as a cook," said Sergeant Goldsmith. "So he's being palmed off to Center Headquarters as a public relations man."

The word "buddy" hasn't come into popularity yet in the new army. I suppose that if there were such things, Maury Sher would be mine. Sher and I occupied adjoining bunks when I was in Battery A.

Private Sher is a smart and likable Jewish boy from Columbus, Ohio. He went to school at Southern California, until he learned that all the world's knowledge doesn't come from the intellectual invalids who usually teach the 8:30 class. Then he went back to Columbus, had an idea patented, and built himself a restaurant shaped like a champagne glass.

Came the fateful Sixteenth of October and Sher enrolled for the Selective Service System. His application was accepted last July and, since he had been the successful proprietor of a restaurant, he was classified as a promising student for the Army cooking course.

The two of us got together when he was sent to the Replacement Center here. We started an acquaintance when I topped all his Jewish jokes and began teaching him how to speak Yiddish. I was attracted by his native intelligence, his pleasant personality, his sense of humor, the similarity of his likes and dislikes to mine, his subscription to PM, his well-stocked supply of cigarettes (my brand), and the cookies he constantly received from home.

So we became more or less constant companions. We made the rounds here together, went to Charlotte together, made goo-goo eyes at the same waitress in Fayetteville, and swapped valuable trade secrets in goldbricking.

Christmas Booty

No — these Christmas packages aren't all intended for this one lone sailor at Great Lakes Naval Training station. But the satisfied look on his face is evidence that he will be opening a few of the boxes very soon.

Trimming the Tree? Here Are Useful Tips

Ho, hum, it's about that time of year. For Santa, and for Prancer and the many tinseled packages around—you've guessed it, time to trim the tree.

This favorite indoor sport of many Hoosiers brings out all the latent abilities of chef, window dresser and wallpaper hanger. And as busy as the fabulous man with one arm and a paint brush is the Christmas tree trimmer. First, get the tree! You have it? Then stalk the room as on a safari for wild deer. What corner should the tree occupy? Over there by the piano? By a window so the neighbors can see it? Or perhaps just inside the front door.

Next obtain a strong stepladder and try it in all positions. This may come in handy when you have completed the trimming and forget that the star is to be added to the tip. With popcorn strings, tinsel, stars and what-not (usually what-not), get started. Turn to the right side of the tree. Here you will find one branch that is too long, and another too low. Add lights and work up from the lower branches. There are usually numerous pauses in the tree trimming ceremony to digest the mental pabulum offered by friends and visiting relatives. Pay no attention to this advice. It's your tree, isn't it?

Rock wool sometimes is added for the snow-like effect and diamond "dust" gives a pretty sparkle. Some trimmers of the 1890 school like to tie on ornaments and candy canes. These fall easily, however, and don't bounce. Bedecked from tip to stern, the Christmas tree holds a warmth of family interest. But the trimming—that's fun enough for a whole evening.

Greatest Yule Hymn Had Humble Origin

On a silent snow-covered night in the year 1818, on the eve of Christmas, Josef Mohr, a young parish priest near Salzburg, Austria, sat thinking of the Christmas story. Its poetry filled his soul and into his mind there rushed "Stille Nacht." The next day he asked an old friend, Franz Gruber, teacher of music who played the organ in Mohr's little church, to set the words to music. The villagers of Mohr's parish were the only people who knew the song for a number of years. Then an organ builder came to the church to repair the organ and copied the song, taking it into the outer world. It was first sung at a Christmas concert in 1833.

SILENT NIGHT

Silent night, holy night,
All is calm, all is bright
Round yon Virgin Mother and Child
Holy Infant so tender and mild,
Sleep in heavenly peace,
Sleep in heavenly peace.

Silent night, holy night,
Shepherds quake at the sight.
Glories stream from heaven afar,
Heav'nly hosts sing Alleluia;
Christ, the Saviour, is born,
Christ, the Saviour, is born!

Silent night, holy night,
Son of God, love's pure light
Radiant beams from Thy holy face,
With the dawn of redeeming grace,
Jesus, Lord, at Thy birth,
Jesus, Lord, at Thy birth.

Tree Decorations

In spite of glittering decorations, the Christmas tree would only remain a dark pageant, were it not for the many colored electric lights which are deftly fastened all over it, and which, when lighted up, make it for the young people a thing of beauty and a joy—for that night at least!

Singing of Yule Carols Widely Known Tradition

The custom of singing carols from house to house on Christmas Eve is today one of the best known and most beloved features of the Christmas tradition. Wherever and whenever Christmas is celebrated it is a day of rejoicing and good cheer, and joy is naturally expressed in song.

The first Christmas carol is said to be that sung by the heavenly host when the birth of Christ was announced to the shepherds.

Anise Grows in Northwest

Anise grows well in the northwest area between the Cascade and Rocky mountain ranges but has the disadvantage of requiring hand labor for thinning and weeding in conflict with sugar beet labor. Plantings in 1942 were very light and much of that planted was lost due to scarcity of hand labor.

Citrus Crop

Citrus fruit production in 1943 has been of record size, 6 per cent over 1942 and 22 per cent above the average for the period 1935-39.

Ammonia Provides Nitrogen

More than one-fourth of the nitrogen used in mixed fertilizers at the outbreak of the war was supplied by various kinds of ammonia liquors.

Cooking Hint

Bacon drippings add super flavor when you fry potato or rice cakes in them.

Toluol By-Product of Coke

Toluol is a by-product of the coke ovens and is a principle raw material for the manufacture of TNT.

Corks Grow Old

Prepare Pie Ahead

If you are having a busy Sunday morning and are planning to produce a warm, syrupy apple pie for Sunday dinner in record time, try this idea. Prepare the pie completely the day before and store unbaked in the refrigerator overnight. Then, after church and while the dinner is cooking, place it in the oven for baking.

Clean Sprays

Clean old sprays thoroughly of all old spray materials. Take the nozzles of sprayers apart and clean. Oil the pumps of sprayers, and set them away without screwing down the tank caps, so that the rubber gaskets are not compressed. Dusters should be cleaned and the outside metal parts oiled, but instead of oil powdered graphite should be used on the inside.

Father of Medicine

Birthplace of Hippocrates, the "Father of Medicine," in 460 B. C., Cos became famous among Romans as a health resort.

Cause Erosion

Soybeans and corn, which will be raised in greater quantity this year, are responsible for some of the greatest soil losses by erosion. For that reason, keep corn and soybeans, as well as other row crops, on level land. If planted on sloping land, the rows should run on the contour, or at right angles to the slope.

Drug Crop

Demands for digitalis have increased and production has been stimulated in Washington and Oregon where it is cultivated and also grows wild. A considerable amount of this drug crop is gathered from these wild plants on the Pacific slope. The leaves are gathered, dried and either bagged or baled prior to shipment.

Colors Soil

Humus is black and colors the soil. Black soil is usually in good mechanical condition, though not necessarily fertile, while some of the most fertile soils are not black and yet are both rich and friable.

Ancient Road of Gravel

First surface of the ancient Appian way was gravel. Paving came much later. Milestones and repair records occasionally turned up throw light on highway traffic in the age of chariots.

Little Girl's Set of Hood and Mittens

Set of Hood and Mittens

CROCHET it of bright red wool for a little girl of two, four or six years—she'll look adorable in the hood and the little red mittens will keep her hands as warm as though she were carrying Mother's muff! A simple afghan-type stitch is used—double shells at edge of the bonnet make a pretty frame for a small face and a two-inch ruffle edged in scallops protects the back of the neck from cutting winds.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Group riding is a rubber-saving procedure which is rapidly gaining acceptance. The average number of persons per car throughout the country prior to July 1, 1942, was 2. In six months it jumped to 2.44, and at the beginning of May it had increased to 2.66. The greatest gain has been in rural industrial areas, where the average is now 3.17 persons per car.

Bottled air may be a regular accessory in the postwar automobile, making the car owner independent of roadside stations when emergency tire inflation is necessary. The air bottles, now used by the Army, can be refilled at any air line.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dewhurst and family of San Diego, were holiday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Ward, at Mission Beach, parents of Mrs. Dewhurst.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank R. Felt were Thanksgiving dinner guests at the Dr. Myron Insko home, 4565 Brighton ave. The Felts have been invited regularly by Mrs. Insko the past five years, being resident medical missionaries in India all that while and unable to get back home, the pleasant occasion has necessarily been postponed.

Mrs. Horace W. Rigg was a Thanksgiving dinner guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Martell, 4853 Saratoga ave. Chief Martell is stationed at the Navy Training station here.

Don Cochrane, confined to Navy hospital for a serious heart attack for some time past, is reported as optimistic as to his future condition and is looking forward to the day when he is able to return to his home.

Women's Club Activities

Ocean Beach Women's club members are busy this week completing plans for their holiday bazaar to be held Tuesday, Dec. 7, in the Piggly-Wiggly store, Newport ave. and Bacon st. Opening time has been set for 2 o'clock and at 10 o'clock Mrs. Winifred Hiltz, chairman of the event, and her committee: Mmes. Hilda Baker, Ella Smith and Minnie Woolley will receive from club members and friends articles to be placed on sale.

Christmas shoppers will find the answer to many of their needs at the gift booth where attractive handmade aprons, tea towels, hot pads and various miscellaneous articles will be on display. Home-cooked foods will also be a feature of the holiday sale.

The annual Christmas party and regular monthly meeting of the Ocean Beach Women's club will be held in the clubroom, 1959 Abbott st. Thursday, Dec. 9, at 2 o'clock with Miss Kate Spani, president, presiding over a short business meeting and Mrs. Sadie Hornung, chairman of the social hour. White elephants wrapped in gay Christmas colors will be donated by each club member and placed in an attractive arrangement to be sold to the highest bidders. Not only will the white elephants be featured as the social hour attraction but will aid in swelling the funds of the club to carry out many new plans for the coming year. Assisting Mrs. Hornung in making the 1943 Christmas party a gala occasion wil be Mrs. Marie Koopman and Mrs. Anna Neujahr.

Shivering Sea

The heaving waters roar;
To wash the sandy shore.
And swim the skyline through
Like gems of emerald hue,
Is the ocean's tide review.
